Wymard's Absence Worrying Coach

Giant Tackle and Punter Has Failed to Appear at Georgetown-May Play Maryland Aggies October 4.

By C. W. SWAN.

Up to a late hour last night "Skip" Wymard, the giant tackle, and who had been relied upon to do the majority of punting for the Blue and Gray, had not put in an appearance at Georgetown.

Coach Nellson is rather worried at the absence of this star, for with Costello out of the game at present and a contest being arranged with the Maryland Agricultural College for Wednesday, October 4, on the Hilliop, Should this contest be arranged, it will be the first battle of the season for the George-town team.

If Theodore Hardeen was a member him in restraint. Last night's feat at the Casino served to further emphasize the powers of this king of handcuffs and jall-breakers.

Privates Guilbert, Wooten, and Roberts, of the United States Marine Corps, went to the Casino Theater last Monday and carried shackles upon the stage for the express purpose of halting the handcuff king in his career. They used a binding stick under the knees to make it that much harder for Hardeen to get away. He got out all right and the marines were not satisfied. They sent to Har-deen a challenge to get out of a crazy crib, a combination arrangement of straps, ropes, and irons that hold prisstraps, topes, and from that nois pris-oners motionless to a crib or cot while they are in solitary confinement. It took Hardeen eighteen minutes last night to demonstrate that a crazy crib is no more to him than a Goldenberg-built pucking case, or an insane strait-jacket, or a Wherch thumb suff
